We only do attorney and law student resumes.

At Attorney Resume all we do is write resumes for law students and attorneys. The fact that we are so focused on the resumes of legal professionals like you means that we know what to look for, we know what the best attorneys expect, and we know what makes your resume stand out.

Our company was founded by arguably the most successful legal recruiter ever in the United States, A. Harrison Barnes. Harrison has worked with extreme care to ensure that you get the same standard he put into revising the resumes of his own clients. When he was recruiting, Harrison worked with very few attorneys at one time due to the massive amount of work he would put into their resumes and into highlighting their skills and accomplishments. As a client of Attorney Resume, you will receive the same level of excellence that the top attorneys in the world receive from top legal recruiters.

The right resume can make a huge difference and it is important that you work with a company that has the skills to give you the resume you are entitled to and deserve. An average resume company will have no idea how to highlight your legal experience. They do not understand what is important and what is not important. At Attorney Resume, we have experience getting people jobs in the legal profession and making a huge difference in their careers. This is exactly what you need as a legal professional. When you are using an average resume company you are not only taking a chance, you may also be doing serious harm to your career.

When you sign up for Attorney Resume we have you fill out a questionnaire that is geared specifically towards law students and attorneys. This questionnaire is something that we use to understand your particular strengths and weaknesses. From the information we gather we determine what needs to be highlighted. Because we deal only with attorneys and law students, we know the precise information that needs to be brought out on your resume and the sort of information that needs to be suppressed.

We create individual resumes specifically for each client at Attorney Resume because no two clients are the same. Everyone needs a different type of resume. Because our organization was founded by an attorney, we treat each resume as a specific "case" to be evaluated and discussed before a final product is produced. Our goal is nothing less than to make sure that the final result we give to you is something that dramatically advances your career.

We know how to organize information on a legal resume.

There is a huge and significant difference between how information is organized on a legal resume versus the average resume. On a legal resume your experience may need to be organized in a different manner depending upon whether or not you are a transactional attorney or a litigator.

We do not use independent contractors or part-time staff.

At most resume writing companies, with a few exceptions, independent contractors working off-site are hired to write resumes. Some of these people have day jobs and work on resumes only at night, while others work their way through school, using the extra money to pay their tuition. Since many of these writers are paid for each individual resume that they write, their incentive is to write as many resumes as they can as quickly as possible. Needless to say, there are a lot of inexperienced people working in the resume writing industry today.

At Attorney Resume, all of our writers are employees of the company. They work out of our offices and are trained in both our offices and on periodic retreats as well. In addition, our writers work on salary, which means that they do not have to rush through their clients' orders to increase their own incomes. Our writers will spend as much time as is necessary on their clients' documents so that they can give them the best work product possible.

We pay strict attention to detail.

Many resume companies believe that anyone can write resumes. At Attorney Resume we have to disagree. The ideal resume writer is exceptionally detail-oriented, far more so than the average writer.

At Attorney Resume, we are focused on writing the perfect resume for our clients. As experts, we can review your resume and make significant changes that even the most experienced and detail-oriented attorneys miss. Let our team of professional resume writers craft the perfect resume for you today.
